Stephen Igor Warokka

Stephen Igor Warokka is a partner in SSEK's labor and employment practice and a supervising partner in the firm's immigration law and work permit practice. Stephen advises clients on all aspects of Indonesian labor and employment law, including severance matters, company regulations, employment contracts, including contracts for foreign workers, secondment arrangements, labor disputes and social security programs.

Stephen is the head of the International Relations Division of the Indonesia Labor Law Consultants Association (HKHKI), an independent organization that takes an active role in providing input to the government on employment-related laws and regulations.

In 2019, Stephen was heavily involved in the process of helping to shape the contents of an Indonesian Minister of Manpower decree on positions that can be held by expatriate employees in various business sectors, meeting with foreign business chambers in Jakarta to help coordinate their input on the draft decree and their communication with the Ministry of Manpower.

Stephen earned his Master of Laws from the University of California, Berkeley (Boalt Hall) School of Law in 2011.
